JAARS Mission

Through partnerships worldwide, JAARS provides quality technical support services and resources to speed Bible translation for all people.

About JAARS

As part of the Wycliffe Bible Translators (Wycliffe) family of organizations, JAARS works to see the Bible translated for every people group that still needs God's Word in its own language. JAARS supports Wycliffe and related organizations worldwide by providing air, land and water transportation; information technology services; Scripture-focused media tools; and other vital resources such as construction, maintenance and logistical support. These international services are coordinated at the JAARS Center in Waxhaw, North Carolina. The center also provides training, conference facilities and office space for Wycliffe and other partners in Bible translation.

William Cameron Townsend founded Wycliffe in 1934. As the organization grew, he saw the need to use airplanes and radios to reach remote language groups. For that reason, he founded JAARS in 1948 in Peru. In 1961, its headquarters were established in Waxhaw, North Carolina. David Reeves has been the president of JAARS since October 1, 2008.

The Challenge

Since 1934, Wycliffe personnel have helped translate the New Testament into 740 languages, representing more than 82 million people. Today, Bible translation programs in progress in 1,998 additional languages. Yet the task is still far from finished. Of the world's 6,909 known language groups, almost 35% are still without any part of the Bible. These 2,393 languages represent about 200 million people. JAARS, along with its partners, embraces the vision that by the year 2025, a Bible translation program will be in progress for every language still needing one.

Who We Are

People who serve with JAARS are typically career missionaries with Wycliffe or volunteers with JAARS. Nearly 600 people serve at the JAARS Center, approximately 40% of whom are volunteers. In addition, more than 400 Wycliffe missionaries serve in JAARS-related positions throughout the world.

Partners

JAARS receives financial and prayer support from individuals, churches and other organizations. JAARS partners with Wycliffe, which actively seeks to engage the worldwide Church in Bible translation. JAARS also partners with SIL International, a faith-based organization that studies, documents and assists in developing the world's lesser-known languages.
